

Tan's not in, it's your original skin.

As the summer's creeping up on us,
We feel the sun's hot glow.
The time has come to flock to the beach,
And put on the Aussie show.

We spread our towels upon the sand,
Lying in the sun,
1 hour, 2 hours, 3 hours, 4.
The summer's just begun

Though it is fine to enjoy the sun,
To have fun with our friends,
There are a few things we must remember,
Before this summer ends.

Though the sun is hot,
Skin cancer's not.
Tan's not in,
It's your original skin.

So don't be a snake,
Don't shed your skin.
You look great,
In the one you're in.

Remember sunscreen, hat and sunnies,
Shirts and Shade as well.
You can then enjoy your summer,
But keep cancer expelled.
