Understanding cancer talk

Doctors may use words you don't understand. It's okay to ask them to explain something again.

Understanding cancer

advanced disease	Disease that has spread outside the organ or tissue to other places in your body benign	Not cancer. Does not invade or spread to other parts of the body although it may grow bigger and still cause some troubles biopsy	The removal of a small bit of the lump or tumour, which is examined under a microscope to help diagnose disease cancer	The name for more than 200 diseases where abnormal cells multiply and grow without control cancer-in-situ	Early stage cancer. This usually means that the total cancer can be removed with surgery or biopsy curable	Cancer that can be made to disappear for good diagnosis	Working out what kind of cancer someone has incurable	A cancer that doesn't go away for good but can be controlled for a period of time localised cancer	Cancer that is confined to a small area or areas lymphatic or glandular system	Glands are part of the body's defence system that protects your body from sickness and disease lymph glands or nodes	Part of the lymphatic system. They are small bean shaped glands found in the body in places like the neck, groin, armpit, chest and abdomen. malignant	Cancerous. Can spread to other parts of the body.

Understanding cancer

When cells from the cancer spread from one part of the body to another. Also called secondary cancer
The study, diagnosis and treatment of cancer Where the cancer first starts in the body
What is likely to happen when someone has a disease, especially their chance of getting better and what might happen after treatment Tells how far the disease has spread in the body. This can be done by scans, x-rays or during surgery A lump in the body caused by uncontrolled growth of cells. Can be benign or malignant. Also called a neoplasm or mass A substance in your blood or blood tissue that helps doctors to see if cancer is present. For example, PSA is a marker for prostate cancer

Doctors might use these words to describe different types of cancers.

Types of cancers

carcinoma (car-sin-oma)	A tumour that starts in the cells of the skin and the body's organs leukaemia (le-k-em-i-a)	A cancer that forms in the bloodstream (blood cancer) lymphoma (lim-phoma)	A cancer that forms in the lymphatic or the glandular system (glands) of the body sarcoma (sar-co-ma)	A tumour that starts in parts of the body like bone, cartilage and muscle that hold the body together

Treatment words

adjuvant After surgery removes or reduces cancer, treatments such as chemotherapy and radiotherapy are offered therapy Medical term for hair loss. This is sometimes a side alopecia effect of chemotherapy. When blood does not carry enough red cells and oxygen anaemia to the rest of the body. It can cause tiredness and fatigue A medicine that reduces feelings of sickness (nausea) anti-emetic and vomiting (spuing) Uses your body's natural defence mechanisms to help biological fight the disease therapy Taking some blood, often from a vein in the arm, by blood test using a thin needle The soft, spongy material inside bones. The bone marrow bone marrow contains stem cells that produce the three types of blood cells: red blood cells, white blood cells and platelets A medical procedure used to replace bone marrow bone marrow destroyed by high doses of chemotherapy with healthy and stem cell bone marrow. Used to treat diseases of the blood, bone transplantation marrow and certain cancers. chemotherapy Uses medicines to treat cancer. Chemo can be given (also called through a needle (intravenously) or by swallowing tablets chemo) or liquid (orally) When tumours are removed, surgeons also remove an clearance area of good tissue around the cancer. This is to ensure margins they have removed it all. This is called a clearance margin Treatments that can be used with regular cancer complementary treatments. For example, massage, music therapy, treatments meditation, bush medicine Chemo is normally given at regular intervals. Each one of these is called a cycle. It is followed by a period cycles during which the body recovers

You will hear doctors use these words during treatment.

Treatment related words

•••••
genetics	The study of heredity and the way a parent passes certain genes on to their children intravenous or IV	An intravenous drip gives fluids directly into a vein. Generally the drip is put in your arm or hand lymphoedema	Chronic swelling (oedema) of part of the body that can occur after cancer treatment. It usually develops slowly and can appear months after treatment for cancer mucositis	An inflammation of the lining of the mouth, throat or gut. It is common after cancer treatment nausea	A feeling like you are going to vomit (spu). It makes you feel weak neutropenia	A decreased number of white cells in your blood. This increases the risk of infection, which sometimes happens after chemotherapy outpatient	People visit a hospital for treatment but don't stay overnight palliative care	A team to support someone with advanced or terminal cancer and their families. It focuses on relieving symptoms. You can have it at home; it respects all beliefs platelets	Cells in the blood that help your blood to clot. If you cut yourself, clotting helps the bleeding to stop prosthesis	An artificial substitute for a missing body part such as an arm, leg or breast radiotherapy (radio/radiation therapy)	A common way to treat cancer. Uses high energy rays to shrink or stop the cancer from getting bigger red cells	Cells in the blood that carry oxygen around the body surgery	An operation to remove or reduce cancer transplantation	When you receive a body part, tissue or cells from another person or your own body white cells	Cells in the blood that fight infections
	_

People who work with cancer

One person who assists in coordinating your care during cancer care coordinator your treatment A specialist who helps with your nutrition. Sometimes dietitian they may offer special foods or drinks A doctor who specialises in hormones for the body, endocrinologist such as diabetes or thyroid disease and others gynaecologist A doctor for women's reproductive business A doctor who specialises in the treatment of diseases in haematologist the blood and bone marrow medical A doctor who uses medicines such as chemotherapy oncologist and hormone therapy to treat cancer multidisciplinary A group of specialists who work together to treat your team (MDT) cancer neurologist A doctor for the brain and nervous system oncologist A doctor who specialises in treating cancer A doctor who specialises in examining cancers under pathologist the microscope A specialist who provides advice on medications pharmacist prescribed by your doctor radiation A specilist doctor who prescribes radiotherapy and oncologist organises the treatment A doctor who removes cancer from the body surgeon

Many different people may care for you when you are having treatment for cancer. Who you see will depend on the type of cancer you have.

For more information

- Call Cancer Council 13 11 20
- · Visit www.cancercouncil.com.au
- Visit www.menzies.edu.au/cancer